Australian Red Cross
Visiting

Experience the joy of human connection

Staying connected to the people and places that matter to you is an important part of ageing well.

With Australian Red Cross Visiting, you can enjoy weekly or fortnightly social visits with a volunteer who shares your interests.

Who is the Visiting program for?

Our volunteer-delivered Visiting service is open to everyone at every stage of older life—people from all cultures, communities and life paths. You will need to be registered with My Aged Care to access the Visiting program.

Start visiting in four easy steps:

Step 1: Sign up

Register your interest in the Visiting program via the Australian Red Cross website.

Step 2: Find your visitor

We'll match you with a friendly volunteer who shares your interests.

Step 3: Start your visits

Choose how you spend your time. Meet your volunteer at home or in town, indoors or out.

Step 4: Enjoy the benefits

Connect, share experiences and have fun.

Safety Independence Connection

The Visiting program is built on three simple principles:

Safety

A commitment to care and safety is embedded in everything we do.

Independence

All our services offer you autonomy, dignity and choice.

Connection

Not only do you benefit from a sense of belonging and connection—so too do our volunteers.

The Australian Red Cross difference

At Australian Red Cross, our Aged and Community Care services have one goal:

To help you live well, however you choose.

For more than 50 years, we've been delivering volunteer-led programs that support older people across Australia to thrive.
